

Abstract

A method of using a dry ice blasting system to clean injection molds in and out of injection molding machines characterized in that it is easy to use and is particularly well suited to cleaning small mold features such as the vents on molding inserts.